

As a business traveler, I can always count on XM radio for a clear signal no matter how far away from the respective city that I am traveling to. I support XM. They are providing a valuable service to those travelers who cannot count on a clear signal as they travel through mountainous terrain.

Do not penalize someone who has created a superior product.

Joseph Macher